ASK ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers I'm 17 and working as a check-out girl in a neighborhood supermarket. I enjoy the work but I am having a problem. The manager of fruits and vegetables has a fresh mouth. This old goat has children who are older than I am and he makes me so mad I want to paste him in the teeth.

He always has something personal to say. All week long he's been following me around whispering "I had a wonderful dream about you last night. Would you like to hear about it?" I walk away from him but he tags along and keeps talking.

I wish I had a real sharp answer to put him in his place. Please, Ann, help me.—INEXPERIENCED.

Dear In: The next time the old geezer asks if you want to hear about his dream say, "No—but I'll bet my father would like to hear about it. Shall I ask him to call you?"

If this doesn't wilt his lettuce speak to the store manager.

Dear Ann Landers You usually come right out and let the meddlers, scoundrels pests, nags and cheapskates have it right between the eyes. But there's one group you haven't hit very hard and I'd like to do it for you. I'm talking about grown kids who don't want their fathers to remarry. — for selfish reasons.

I never saw it to fail. If Dad has no money the kids are always pushing the old man to marry some nice woman who will take care of him in his old age so they won't get stuck.

If Dad HAS money they don't want him to get married because it cuts down their share. I've seen this happen many times among my older friends and it's a shame. My brother listened to his selfish kids. They got him to ask the woman he was going to settle for $10,000 if he should die first. The woman told him to forget he ever knew her.

Funny thing, Ann, she died two years later and left a big estate. Please print this. It could open a few eyes. — OLD SALTY

Dear Salt: A father who would allow selfish children to talk him out of a second marriage for financial reasons deserves a lonely old age — which is usually what he gets.

Dear Ann Landers I am 60. My husband is 68. I've worked at a steady job for 40 years because we never had any children. I wanted to adopt but my husband refused to take "a stranger's child" into the house. I realize now I was foolish to let him have his way about this.

Now that we are able to go on trips and do some of the things I've always wanted to do, my husband won't budge. Every time we talk about a vacation he develops a new ache or pain.

My sister is going west to visit her son in a few weeks and has asked me to accompany her. We would be gone only six days. My husband is putting on such a campaign of abuse that I'm a nervous wreck. He calls me a "gadabout" and says a woman's place is at home with her husband. He says if I leave him to go on this trip he will get sick and it will be my fault.

What shall I do? — SHUT IN

Dear In: You've catered to this selfish man for so long he is like a spoiled child. Of course it won't be easy to bust out after 40 years of imprisonment but I urge you to try.

Tell your sister you are going on the trip. Prepare plenty of nourishing food so your husband will be well fed in your absence. Let him know that if he gets sick the doctor can do him more good than you can. Enjoy yourself and send me a postcard.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference Do you? Send for ANN LANDER'S booklet, "Before You Marry Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dramatic Versatility Key To Longevity Of "Taggart" Lead

Sheer dramatic versatility has been the foundation of Dan Durvea's acting career since his first role in a simple backwoodsman and roisterous American business man in a western film.

It is the latter role that he essays opposite Tony Young in a new film, "The Jayhawkers," to be released next Saturday. It is the first time as president of the Film Exchange Corp. stars of the previous year have joined on a Western adventure. Louis L'Amour and his wife, Elsa Carlisle, will also be in the picture.

The film is the second in a series of 12 films to be produced by Dan Durvea. He has been shooting in Kentucky for several months and is returning to the state again. He is a native of Louisville and a former resident of the city. He is a graduate of the University of Louisville and helped found the Louisville Art Center. He is a member of the Louisville Art Association and the Louisville Art Center.

Dan Durvea is the son of Dan and Mary Durvea, who live in Louisville. Later he will be married to Mary.

17% Overall Rate Increase For Blue Cross Approved

Insurance Commissioner William E. Bivin has approved a 17 percent overall rate increase for Blue Cross Hospital Plans direct pay subscribers, after turning down Blue Cross's previous request for an average 22.39 percent increase.

The approval of the new rates have so far come after about three depleted reserves that they must be exhausted over only a 2.59 month period, the commissioner said. Bivin ordered Blue Cross to begin at once to identify and separate the age category, however, and submit to him by April 15, 1966 a statement indicating the plan's experience with subscribers over 65 for the years 1963, '64 and '65.

The Commissioner also cut down the projection period for the increased rates from 18 months to less than 12, to July 1, 1966. Blue Cross will have to submit a new filing on that date, Bivin said.

Blue Cross' State Board of Directors agreed with a Blue Cross relief not to exceed 17 percent, in view of a suggestion that it is clearly necessary to take 19 hearing that least produce a rate that is fair to subscribers over age 65, even though it may be less safe to the financial structure of the plan.

He cited the plan's losses in the direct pay subscriber coverage from 1960 to 1965, $1,207,000, and pointed out that while Blue Cross reserves not yet depleted, he said that that period were to be used to separate the age categories and to set new rates for subscribers.

COMBS REUNION SONGThe Beauty and Nature of the Kentucky Hills

When Summer days have past and gone
And Autumn days are near
Then the days of the Crows return
The ones we love so dear.

The Hills are a-burnin' bright
From whence did you come?
Many years have past and gone
But they always look the same.
As the ritual of the hills,
wherever they may be,
flow swiftly down the valley,
that progress may be made.

Pray go on to the hills,
The fields that are green,
Beneath the sun and moon,
With the voice of the birds.

This is my Father's world,
The shadow of the Rock of Ages,
That progress may be made.

There's a Crows in the hills,

BALLAD OF THE EXILED KENTUCKY MOUNTAINEER By BERNICE T. HISER OF BUCKHORN

Tune: Born and Raised in Old Virginia

I went North and I got me a job;

And the pay was mighty fine;

The people I met were, oh, so different;

And the tongue they spoke it wasn't mine.

I went for a walk to hear the birds sing;

All I heard was shrieking horns and brakes,

And roaring trains, and shouting voices;

At thought of it my head still aches.

I had to go ten miles to see one tree.

Or a little place where the grass grew green.

But in every such a plot, "Keep off the grass".

On ever hand was quickly seen.

The air smelled stale when I stepped out;

It was never fresh at noon or night:

Gasoline, cigar butts, creosote;

Why, even the stars didn't shine bright.

I went to Church, to different ones.

Thinking that there at least I'd find.

Friendly folks and the good old Word;

But all they did was unsettle my mind.

Now I've stayed on for months and years.

But life up here is stale and sere;

And there's just one thing carries me through

The rest of the lonesome exiled year.

When I was a little mountain child,

To keep count of time I had but one way;

It has been so-and-so many days since Christmas".

Or "Only so many more till Christmas Day".

So now exiled, I count my time,

From the days when I am so wonderfully lucky to take my vacation, where I long to stay

Forever, back home in my dear Kentucky.

Where it's "Light, honey, and set a spell;"

Where the birds sing softly night and day.

Where the air is, oh, so sweet and sunny.

And the preachers preach the Good Old Way.

Now, everyone I know wants to stay on young.

Everybody, that is, but me;

I want to hurry to retirement age

So I can retire to Kentucky where I long to be.

HOMECOMING DAY

I have never had a urge to roam away from my dear old mountain home
Many have left and went away
But they'll be back Homecoming Day.

2.

I can hardly wait to see their face
When they get back to the old home place
They all love the good old mountain way
And they'll be back Homecoming Day.

3.

There'll be smiles and joy all around
In Hazard that day the old home town
Plenty of hand-shaking you wait and see
In old Perry their hearts'll always be.

With the Combs reunion in the old town
Food and drinks upon the ground
You'll not be able to use your phones
On every line there'll be a Combs.

5.

Just say, "Howdy Combs" to all you meet
That'll be about all that's on the street
GOOD: the Combs must mean a lot to him
Because he made so many of them.

6.

When they started to roam there was only a few of a hardy breed that grew and grew.
Setting on every new found trail
Enclosing their cabins with the old fence rail.

7.

They blazed the trail of the wilderness path
Despite all natures perious wrath.
The urge of the unknown forced them on
And they never looked back to the setting sun.

8.

When they come thru the Cumberland Pass
They knew they'd found their calling at last
The old timers never again left their home
They had no more desire to roam.

9.

Deep in the mountains where the old owls wail
It was the forefathers who blazed the trail
Only the young generation roamed away
And they'll be back Homecoming Day.

10.

Twilight is falling over the old hills
Back where the good old folks still live
Moonlight breaking over the mountain crest
Shining on the old home I love the best.

11.

Now this joyous day is at an end
And the folks are leaving home again
Let all kneel down and let us pray
That we'll all be back Homecoming Day.

Christopher Youths Serve With NYC

By Mrs. Ernest Fritts, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maggard and family, of Waynesburg, have returned to their home after being called here due to the sudden death of Mr. Ray Howard. Mrs. Howard, the deceased, was a brother-in-law to Mr. Maggard.

Garlen Byrd, Jr., better known to his many friends as "Butch" of Ohio, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Byrd, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sparkman have moved into the home vacated by Mr. and Mrs. James Strunk. The Sparkmans purchased the property.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hammonds and family, of Dayton, are visiting Mrs. Hammonds' mother, Mrs. Pansy Begley.

Mr. Phillip Allen, who is employed in Campbellsville, as an electrician, spent the weekend here visiting his family.

Mr. William Warner has been confined to his home for several days. Willie is our TV man and we surely miss him when he is ill.

Several of our young people are members of the N.Y.C. Those employed at present are Miss Bette Warren, Freddie Reeves, Bob Turner and Gene Farmer.

The church here closed a series of services Thursday night. Rev. Zeke Grigsby of Ohio conducted the services. Zeke is a former resident of our town, having lived here when a small boy. We hope for him the greatest of success in this great and noble task.

The sudden death of Mr. Ray Howard came as a great shock to our community. Mr. Howard had lived at Corlett Hill for many years. He was well liked by all who knew him. He leaves a host of friends and relatives. He was married to the former Miss Nancy Maggard, who with two daughters, Mrs. Atana Wells and Miss Mary Ann Howard, at home, survive. Our sympathy is extended to the entire family in this hour of grief.

FBI Release Says Crime Rate Up 13%

by felons who had been previously convicted and paroled on charges of felonious assault. Thirty-two died at the hands of paroled robbers. 15 were killed by paroled burglars. 10 by paroled grand theft offenders and 9 by criminals who had been paroled after imprisonment for other serious crimes.

Almost one third of the police killers were currently on parole or probation when they murdered a police officer.

Assaults on police remain a problem as illustrated by the fact that nationally 10 of every 100 officers became the victim of an attack during 1964.

Need for Increased Police Strength:

Although the total number of persons employed in local and state police protection increased substantially during 1964 the ratio of police to population remained the same as in 1963—with 1.9 police employees per 1,000 population. The suburbs which are registering the sharpest crime increases are generally below the national average with respect to police strength, having a police employee rate of 1.3 per 1,000 population.

Mr. Hoover noted that the average police officer strength—1.7 per 1,000 population has remained unchanged since 1958 despite a 58 percent increase in the volume of crime a 26 percent increase in motor vehicle registrations and a constantly rising number of demands for other police services. He observed that rapid population growth increasing population density and mobility as well as the continued refinement of individual rights, require a realistic re-examination of community police protection needs.

According to Mr. Hoover generally the manpower available to law enforcement agencies is inadequate to perform their mounting tasks and he especially noted the need for additional officers in uniform on patrol duty.

High Rate of Recidivism:

The FBI Director called attention to information in the 1964 Uniform Crime Reports which relates to the criminal histories of offenders. This information was obtained as a result of a special program instituted by the FBI in 1963. During 1963 and 1964, the criminal records of almost 93,000 offenders were processed under this program. These records disclosed that 71 percent of these then-active offenders had been arrested at least twice and some form of leniency such as probation, parole or suspended sentence had been granted to more than one half of them at some time during their criminal careers. After the first occasion on which they were beneficiaries of lenient treatment, these criminal repeaters averaged more than three additional arrests.

The program provided an analysis of criminal repeaters by age group based on the offender's age in 1964 which showed that 47 percent of the young offenders under 20 years of age had been arrested more than once. The rate of recidivism jumped to 69 percent for those 20-24 years of age, 79 percent for the 25-29 age bracket and then held at about this same level for all older age groups.

In carrying its analysis of criminal repeaters one step further, the FBI determined the following facts concerning offenders under 20 years old: (1) they averaged 16 1/2 years of age at the time of their first arrest; (2) they had an average criminal career span between first and latest charge of one and one-half years; and (3) they had accumulated an average of three different charges during this period.

Those in the 40-49 age group had the highest number of charges, an average of eight, during their criminal careers—which averaged over 16 years.

The figures disclosed 34 percent of the adult offenders processed under this special program were less than 20 years old at the time of their first arrest. Their criminal careers averaged 10 years each—during which they accumulated an average of five arrests for different criminal acts.

Recidivism Among Selected Types of Felons:

Special studies were also made by the FBI concerning murders, bank robbers and fugitive felons which produced some interesting facts. The criminal histories of 1,574 persons who were arrested for murder at some stage in their careers disclosed they had an average of more than seven arrests over a 16 year span, and 4 percent of these offenders had more than one murder charge on their record.

Of 265 murders known to have been released on parole 105 were first offenders when initially charged with murder. Following parole these 265 offenders committed 737 additional offenses, 25 percent of which were for serious or Crime Index offenses. Twelve of these parolees were again charged with having committed another murder.

A study of bank robbers who were arrested and charged in 1963 and 1964 revealed their average age to be 31 and their average criminal career to be over 10 years—during which time an average of five arrests were recorded almost one half of them for serious crimes against the person or property. More than three-fourths of these bank robbers had been arrested for other crimes prior to the arrest and charge for bank robbery. For 22 percent bank robbery was the first offense.

A relatively small number of bank robbers (three percent) had repeated this crime after being arrested for bank robbery. Mr. Hoover said the low rate of recidivism in bank robbery is undoubtedly influenced by the high rates of conviction and the prison terms meted out by the courts.

Mr. Hoover commented that law enforcement has a growing need to share in the data available to each agency and by so doing each community will be afforded better police protection.

This report was prepared by the FBI's Bureau of Criminal Statistics.

Governors Discuss Strip Mining

At the urging of Kentucky's Governor Edward T. Breathitt, the governors of at least 12 states have asked for adoption of interstate strip-mining compacts with uniform standards of regulation and reclamation.

"I have always believed, and continue to believe, that state problems should be handled by the states," Breathitt told the National Governors' Conference, which met July 26-29 in Minneapolis.

"But in recent years the practice of strip-mining has confronted Kentucky with a problem of such scope and gravity that it cannot adequately be handled by the state alone."

The statement of principle pledged the support of the signing governors to compacts that would leave regulation and enforcement to the affected states, so long as they abide by the minimum standards set.

Governor Breathitt was joined by the governors of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, Indiana, Oklahoma, South Carolina, North Carolina, Vermont, and Idaho, in signing the statement.

Near the close of the conference the governors of Ohio and Florida had indicated that they, too, would sign the statement, Breathitt said, and added he hoped more would sign before the meeting ended.

The proposed compact is on the mode of the undertaken for study by the Council of State Governments, by earlier recommendation of Governor Breathitt, his predecessor Bert T. Combs, and Kentucky Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick.

Aside from interstate action, the governors called upon the Federal government to "set the example" by requiring its coal suppliers to carry out effective reclamation of disturbed lands. The Tennessee Valley Authority,

Lt. Duard C. Hamm had four years of ROTC training at Eastern State College in Richmond where he received his commission as 2nd Lt. and a B.A. Degree on the contracts night of June 2nd.

"We further propose," the governors added, "that the Congress authorize a strip-mine reclamation fund to supplement the financing of the Appalachian Development Act and other regional programs to provide a more inclusive program of reclamation of strip, auger and open-pit sites."

Lothair And The City Election

Once Lothair is annexed to Hazard, citizens in that community will be eligible not only to vote in this year's City election, but to seek public office in Hazard as well, provided they filed for the office before August 5.

We are pleased that this is the case, having Lothair citizens become immediately eligible for participation in Hazard's governmental affairs will do more to dispel the notion that they are "second class citizens" than anything else we can imagine.

We encourage Lothair citizens eligible to vote this year to pay close attention to the approaching campaign, and to consider the election as much their own as it is any other Hazard citizen's.

And we encourage those Lothair citizens who filed for the various Hazard offices for their willingness to become involved in the leadership of our town here.

This next indicates that Lothair citizens intend to be Hazard's stepchildren, that the community fully intends to have responsible attitudes toward the government of their City.

We hope that the eligibility of Lothair residents to participate in this election will not cause Hazard's City Commission to back away from completing the annexation procedure.

Indeed we hardly see how any of the Commissioners can change his mind now. The ordinance of intent to annex Lothair was passed unanimously! For a Commissioner to do so would be the same as admitting that he is purely politically motivated, that he wants Lothair left out of the election for the sake of his own political skin.

That would be a heavy burden for an innocent candidate to carry around his neck until November 2.

The thing for the City Commission to do is proceed with the final steps toward annexation and then to openly welcome Lothair folks to full citizenship in the vibrant City of Hazard.

Poet Opposes Strip Mining

Dear Sirs:

Conratulation on your editorials on strip mining. It is about time now for Eastern Kentucky to put up to the irrevocable destruction of their land. Enter us through this battle now to a successful outcome in there is a second chance the land and the region will be beyond repair in our time.

There is only one way to oppose a law that is really not morally wrong and that is the way of passive resistance. It follows upon reading any of the mineral rights contracts that were deliberately worded and of course, it is a demand that a full knowledge would sign a way for such a thing to be even to the companies or the state.

The warlike destruction involved in strip mining is a violation of nature and makes us callous to the environment.

The land property is threatened with destruction by the coal companies, most of whom have no care for the land or the region. Simply let them stand in front of the court of course this will only work if the victims and the survivors really all of mankind together. Let them stand in Perry and Knott County who are the ones who are threatening their homes. This will force the politicians to act by arousing the conscience of Kentucky and the nation. As you pointed out in a recent editorial the court cases won by the side with the money. When the reverse is true only people must find some sort of recourse.

Oppose strip mining by dramatizing the helpless of the population in that recourse. No amount of money will not determed moral resistance the record shows clear recent proof of this.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Agent Advises August 1-September 20 Is Time To Seed All Grasses

Paul Keen - County Agriculture Agent

August 1st to September 20 is time to seed all grasses and legumes except lespedeza which must be seeded in spring. It is estimated that an acre of good pasture is equal in feeding value to 42 bushel corn.

You can save money by seed pasture in 1965 since the Secretary of Agriculture has authorized an 80 percent cost share payment. The cost share is estimated at $10.50 per acre.

LAND CLEARING - 80 percent of cost not to exceed $16.00 per acre.

SEED AND SEED BED PREPARATION

80 percent of cost not to exceed $11.20 per acre.

FERTILIZER - 80 percent of cost not to exceed $10.50 per acre.

LIME - $6.50 per ton.

Application and approval must be obtained through local ASC Office before practice is started to qualify for cost share.

Death Claims Dr. M. B. Payne

A well-known Mountain Doctor and City Government Leader, Dr. M. B. Payne of Hazard died yesterday afternoon at the Veteran's Hospital in Louisville after a 10 month illness.

Dr. Payne had been a practicing physician in Hazard for 31 years, opening an office in 1933.

He was very active in city and civic affairs having been elected as Hazard City Commissioner two years ago.

Payne was a native of Clifton, Virginia and a graduate of the University of Virginia in 1929.

He was the son of the late M. H. and Florence Bell Payne.

The man who traveled to his patients in a jeep was on the staff of the Mt. Mary and Appalachia Hospitals.

"Doc Payne", as all the Mountain people knew him by, was a member of the VFW, Lodge 676 F and AM of Hazard, The Kerr Brothers Funeral Home of Lexington in charge of arrangements.

Burial will be in the Lexington Cemetery with the Kerr Brothers Funeral Home of Lexington in charge of arrangements.

The body will lie in state at the Kerr Brothers Funeral Home until time for the funeral, friends may call after 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The family has asked that no flowers be sent.

Law Suit Names County As Defendant

A suit filed in the Perry County Circuit Court Clerk's Office has named Perry County as defendant.

Paul Sizemore, Verne Sizemore and Deonall Sizemore filed suit last week asking for damages amounting to $67,600 plus interest in connection with an accident that took place on August 6 last year at Bentown near Happy.

The suit contends that the three plaintiffs were crossing a county maintained swinging bridge to visit some friends at Bentown when the floor of the bridge gave way injuring all three named in the suit.

Deverall Sizemore, 5, was injured seriously according to information filed in the case.

The suit was filed on Thursday, August 5 in Perry Circuit Clerk Grace Strong's office.

MOREHEAD SKYSCRAPER—This is the architect's version of a 12-story men's dormitory to be built at Morehead State College. The building will contain 110,975 square feet of floor space. It will house 400 students and the dining area will seat 500 students. The cost is estimated at $2,400,000. Part of the cost will be paid from the proposed $176 million State bond issue if it is approved by voters November 2.

Bond Issue Backers Listed

A list of the Twelfth Highway District organizations who have endorsed the $176 million bond issue has been announced by the Kentucky Better Roads Council of Lexington.

The issue will be on the November ballot and the state money will give the Commonwealth a capital construction program of $860 million with the larger share coming from the federal government.

In addition to highways, the bond issue will finance dormitory and classroom construction at the University of Kentucky, the University of Louisville and the state colleges. In addition, it will provide for expansion at the state vocational schools as well as airports, county health centers, local libraries and small lakes.

The highway portion of the bond issue amounts to $139 million which will be matched by the Federal government with another $597 million. The issue is to be retired out of the annual increase in highway funds, making a tax increase unnecessary.

Counties in this highway district and the endorsing groups include:

TENTH DISTRICT — Breathitt Co., Estill Co., Lee Co., Perry County, Magoffin Co., Menifee Co., Morgan Co., Owsley Co., Powell Co., Wolfe Co.

HAARC Is Seeking Information On Retarded People In County

Garland Wells, president of the Hazard Area Association for Retarded Children has announced that the HAARC is interested in finding out just how many retarded persons there are in Perry County.

The HAARC needs to know the name, age, address, birth date, parents or guardians' address and if the person had ever attended school or if he is in school at present or if the person could attend special classes.

Any one with such information should contact Mr. Wells as soon as possible.

It was learned this morning from HAARC officials that the Hazard Hairdressers Association has given a donation of $50.00 for retarded children of the county.

The speaker took sharp issue with some of the outside news media as to the publicity given the Appalachian area.

The speaker thought much of the publicity given our area by the outsiders was distorted and unfair tending to give a negative image to the whole Appalachian area.

He is PFC Gary L. Clay, of Company C, 2nd Bn, 327 Infantry Regiment.

Clay, 20 years old, is the son of Mrs. Charles Cornett of Gilmaw.

He has been in the paratroopers 19 months.

The Herald is interested in learning the names and something of the personal history of all local men now on duty either in the Dominican Republic or in South Vietnam and its adjacent waters.

Geologic Maps Of Eastern Ky. Are Published

Two new geologic maps covering portions of eastern Kentucky have just been published, according to Dr. Wallace W. Hagan, state geologist and director of the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky.

The new maps were produced under the cooperative mapping program conducted by the Kentucky and United States Geological Surveys. They are "Hyden East Quadrangle," covering parts of Leslie and Perry Counties, and "Rush Quadrangle," covering parts of Boyd and Carter Counties.

Each contains geologic diagrams, explanations, structural information and discussions of potential mineral wealth.

Coal is the principal mineral resource within the mapped areas. The maps show the crop lines of both the principal commercial coals and others which were recognized in the course of the field investigation. Substantial reserves of coal are indicated for some of the seams.

Clay deposits suitable for the manufacture of brick and other ceramic products are indicated in the area covered by the Rush geologic quadrangle.

Copies may be purchased from the Kentucky Geological Survey, Mineral Industries Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, for $1.13 per map.

Major Step Made In Urban Renewal; Price Set For Property

A major step in the North Main Street Urban Renewal Project was taken last Thursday night when the Perry County Board of Education voted, by full majority, to sell its property to the City of Hazard for the North Main Project.

A price of $166,300.00 was agreed upon by the school board at their regular meeting held in the county superintendent's office on High Street.

The Hazard Urban Renewal Service Supply in Hazard at a cost it had made sometime ago that of $5,639.00. Home Office submitted a teacher from driving to the only bid for the school bus. Teachers will be permitted to drive a 50x12 structure. According to Charles Simpson of Home Office, the classroom will be set up within the next three weeks.

The County School Officials will now have to begin a search for a site to rebuild the county facilities.

Two appraisals were made of the county property, the first set the fair market value at $22.3 per gallon. Standard Oil submitted a 22.4 bid while Gulf met with the support of Paul Campbell but was voted down right to furnish the gas.

The board chose House-Rankin of Hazard to audit the superintendent as the secretary for the 1964-65 school of the local school board.

This was the last regular board meeting before the school year gets underway. Classes are to begin in the county on August 23. The next regular board repealed a ruling meeting is set for September 9.

NYC Workers To Receive First Payday

The Neighborhood Youth Corps workers will receive their first payday on Friday, August 13. The first checks will either be delivered to each employer, or a representative of the NYC office will see that they are delivered to each enrollee. Any enrollee who finishes his week on Thursday, may pick up his check at the N.Y.C. office at City Hall on Friday.

The following paydays will be designated or set up by the High Street. The intention is to bookkeeper. Each enrollee will replace the college returnees as they are dropped from the Program.

The salary payments will depend on the following rules of the Program. Any enrollee who is absent due to sickness will have to have an excuse from a doctor or a hospital. If any enrollee is absent for any reason, he cannot be paid, according to the rules and regulations of the Department of Labor.

James H. Bailey, owner of Bailey's Tire Service and Restaurant in Wabash, has been conducting a drive to ease the traffic problem that arises when school buses going to or leaving M. C. Napier High School converge on the bridge and cause a traffic tie up.

Bailey has been in contact with state and federal officials on the matter and has written several letters about the much needed project.

The purpose of this Program is to enable boys and girls to gain job-training and work experience, each enrollee is responsible to his supervisor for performing a satisfactory job. Enrollee's conduct must be the same as that required in any extra-curricular activity sponsored by the schools. Work supervisors are required to report any violation of the rules to the Project Director. Any enrollee who has to be reprimanded for lack of job performance will be called in front of the five-man Work Training Committee, which has been appointed by the Perry County Advisory Committee, Inc. These staff members will have the authority to reprimand enrollees for the first offense, and to suspend them from work privileges, not exceeding one week, for the second offense. The Work Training Committee will consider seriously repeated offenses and after they have all the details, will suspend the enrollees from the Program either temporarily or permanently.

In the next two or three weeks several enrollees who are returning to college will be replaced by new enrollees. All boys and girls from needy families who are between the ages of 16 thru 21 and wish to apply for N.Y.C. work-training experience, should report to the Employment Office, located on High Street. The intention is to bookkeeper. Each enrollee will replace the college returnees as they are dropped from the Program.

The new phone numbers at the office are 436-5326 and 436-5487.
